DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

I. Claims 1-18, drawn to an apparatus and a method for providing a set of soft start power signals to operating circuitry mounted on a circuit board, classified in Class 363, subclass 49.

II. Claims 19-27, drawn to an apparatus and a method for providing a set of power signals to operating circuitry mounted on a circuit board, classified in Class 363, subclass 65.

III. Claims 28-30 drawn to an apparatus having a control circuit being configured to open the overvoltage protection switch when the output voltage value exceeds a predetermined threshold, classified in Class 361, subclass 91.1.

IV. Claims 31-33, drawn to a circuit board providing an output power signal, the output power signal having (i) a regulated voltage value regardless of a value of the input power signal when the control register stores the first control value, and (ii) a margined voltage value based on the value of the input power signal when the control register stores the second control value that is different than the first control value, classified in Class 323, subclass 349.

2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I, II, III, and IV are related as subcombinations disclosed as useable in a single comprising an interconnection mechanism which is configured to electrically connect a first controller of a first circuit with a second controller of a second circuit, wherein the first controller is configured to disable a first converter when the second control signal indicates that the second converter improperly provides a second soft start power signal, and wherein a second controller is configured to disable a second converter when the first control signal indicates that the first converter improperly provides the first soft start power signal; invention II has separate utility such as in an apparatus for providing a set of power signals to operating circuitry mounted on a circuit board by directing a first converter to adjust a first power signal based on a second current indication signal provided by a second controller, and directing a second converter to adjust a second power signal based on a first current indication signal provided by the first controller ; invention III has separate utility such as in an apparatus for providing a power signal to operating circuitry mounted on a circuit board wherein a control circuit being configured to open the overvoltage protection switch when the output voltage value exceeds a predetermined threshold; and invention IV has separate utility such as in a circuit board providing an output power signal, the output power signal having (i) a regulated voltage value regardless of a value of the input power signal when the control register stores the first control value, and (ii) a margined voltage value based on the value of the input power signal when the control register stores the second control value that is different than the first control value. See (MPEP 806.05(d)).

4. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

5. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
